

CHARACTER

Character consists of what you do on your third and fourth tries.

It is not the deed that is memorable, but the spirit that made the deed possible.

If you don't stand for something, you'll fall for anything.

Conviction is useless unless it is converted into conduct.

Reputation is what you have when you arrive; character is what you have when you leave.

Strong is the one who conquers others, but mighty is the one who conquers himself.

Reputation is clearly words, while character is clearly deeds.

What the superior man seeks is in himself, what the mean man seeks is in others.

He who overcomes his wrath has overcome his greatest enemy.

Be not disturbed at being misunderstood, be disturbed only at not understanding.

Everyone tries to define this thing called Character. It's not hard. Character is doing what's right when nobody's looking.

Remember not only to say the right thing in the right place, but far more difficult still, to leave unsaid the wrong thing at the tempting moment.

Waste no more time arguing what a good man should be. Be one.

The measure of a man's real character is what he would do if he knew he would never be found out.

Character isn't inherited. One builds it daily by the way one thinks and acts, thought by thought, action by action. If one lets fear or hate or anger take possession of the mind, they become self-forged chains.

Thoughts lead on to purposes; purposes go forth in action; actions form habits; habits decide character; and character fixes our destiny.

The manner in which one endures what must be endured is more important than the thing that must be endured.

If a man has built a sound character it makes but little difference what people say about him, because he will win in the end.

Character, like a photograph, develops in darkness.
